

Don Russell

Is the US in decline?

Is it time to reconsider our relationship with America?

The US is still grappling with the economic crisis while China and India are growing strongly.

The relative importance of US economic power is shrinking.

What can we expect from Australia's relationship with the US and should we look at the relationship differently from now on?

Don Russell was Principal Adviser to Paul Keating between 1985 and 1993 and again in 1996 when Keating was Treasurer and Prime Minister.

Between 1993 and 1995, Don served as Australia's Ambassador to the US in Washington. He is currently the Independent Chairperson of State Super and the Chairman of State Super Financial Services.

Hosted by
The Australia Institute

Research that matters.

Date

Wednesday 9 June 2010

Time

5:30 pm for a 6 pm start

Venue

The Lounge Bar

Level 3

@The Uni Pub

17 London Circuit

Canberra

Free: no RSVP required

For more information please contact Serena Rogers on 0421 759 262