

Polling - Australian and Taiwanese views on China

June 2021

Method

The Australia Institute surveyed 603 people in Australia and 606 people in Taiwan between 11 and 27 June 2021, online through Dynata polling, with nationally representative samples by gender and region.

The margin of error (95% confidence level) for the national results is 4%.

Voting crosstabs show voting intentions for the House of Representatives, or the Legislative Yuan. Those who were undecided were asked which way they were leaning; these leanings are included in voting intention crosstabs. “Coalition” includes separate responses for Liberal and National. “Other” refers to Independent/Other.
