

ANNE KANTOR FELLOWSHIPS

- A unique paid training program to equip and encourage emerging voices in Australian public policy debates
- Work for Australia's leading public policy think tank on research that matters
- Develop your career and contribute to policy advocacy for a more just, sustainable and fair society

The Anne Kantor (General) Fellowship has been established to develop the next generation of change-makers by providing Fellows with a unique opportunity to gain on-the-job training and experience.

During the 12-month (or part-time equivalent) Fellowship, you will learn how to undertake research and advocacy, turn ideas into reality, and gain a broad understanding of how public policy gets made in Australia.

About the opportunity

Working in one of the Australia Institute research teams, you will undertake research, prepare reports, and support governance functions while learning how to disseminate and communicate your research results. Fellows will also gain experience in organising and promoting events, workshops, and seminars in relation to research projects.

Fellows are paid $55,000 per annum, plus super. A $2,000 relocation allowance is also available to Fellows relocating from interstate. In 2024, there are positions available in our Canberra office and one position available in Tasmania.

About you

Fellowships are open to applicants at any point in their career. Previous Fellows have included people at all stages of their careers, including recent graduates and those returning to work.

The only requirements are that applicants should hold an undergraduate degree in a relevant discipline (e.g., Economics, Politics, Law, Environment, etc.), and be available to commence no later than 1 February 2024. Applicants should be:

- A good writer and fast learner;
- A skilled communicator; and
- A team player who enjoys working with a high-performing team to get results and create lasting impact.

About us

The Australia Institute is Australia's leading independent think-tank. We produce high-quality, timely research designed to have impact across a broad range of economic, social, accountability and environmental issues.

Our work is designed to influence and persuade policymakers and politicians and to shift the public debate. We are fiercely non-partisan, but we don't shy away from engaging in debates on ideas. We believe in democracy, and our work is aimed at a better, more informed democratic debate.

We offer

- The opportunity to work in Australia's leading independent think-tank
- Competitive leave provisions: Annual Leave, Cultural Leave (floating public holidays), Gifted Leave over Christmas/New Year
- A commitment to supporting professional development

To apply

Applicants must have the right to live and work in Australia to apply.

If you also wish to apply for the Anne Kantor Young Women Environmentalist's Fellowship a separate application must be submitted.

To apply, please provide a copy of your CV, contact details for two referees, location preference (Canberra or Tasmania) and a letter no longer than two pages outlining:

- Why you are applying for this role, and how this experience will help with your future career goals.
- In your view, the most influential Australia Institute report published in the last 12 months, and why you selected it.
- What you think is the most significant public policy issue currently facing Australia, and why.

Please send your application to recruitment@australiainstitute.org.au by midnight on 31 May 2023.

Receipt of applications will be acknowledged by email however, due to the high volume of applications received, only those applicants selected for an interview will be contacted. Interviews will be held in June.

For further questions or information regarding these opportunities, please email your request to recruitment@australiainstitute.org.au, and we will get back to you.
